

Lauren Fromm
404751250

Roles of Subwindows

The first window gives a description of what change was made. It also shows the order of changes with respect to the merges.

The next box shows who made the change with their name and email.

The next date shows the date and time of the change. The dates are mostly in order, unless there are changes made at the same time to two different merges.

On the bottom left is we see a diff format that shows the actual file changes so we can see what exactly happened during the change.

The final box on the lower right shows the names of the files that were changed.